

Dear FCC: XM radio provides me with the information and entertainment I need to commute daily to and from Washington DC. The traffic and weather channels recently added are a valuable source of information for decision making. The NAB should not have the right to control this aspect of broadcasting on XM Radio. It doesn't in any detract from the services provided by other media. In fact, why is the NAB singling out XM radio, when I can get the same service through any ISP? I respectfully urge the FCC to reject the NAB Petition 04-160, and support Satellite Radio's ability to provide the kind of programming that is demanded and deserved.
